Llandaff has a quieter pace than most of Cardiff. The old village sits around Llandaff Cathedral, a short walk from the open space of Llandaff Fields, and many of the homes here are older and larger than the typical city terrace. Houses like these deserve roofers who slow down and take care, and that's the approach Redland Roofing Cardiff brings to every job. It's a family-owned business run by John Owen, with over 30 years in the roofing trade behind it. Older homes in Llandaff often have natural slate roofs, sizeable chimney stacks and a fair amount of roof tiling Cardiff lead work around bays, dormers and abutments. Each of these needs a careful hand. Slate is a lovely roofing material, but individual slates slip or crack over time as the nails holding them corrode, and a roofer has to work around the sound ones without breaking more than they fix. Chimneys on bigger, older houses take a battering from the south-westerly weather that comes up the Bristol Channel, and the mortar joints erode until the stack needs repointing. Lead flashings and lead joints can split or lift, letting rain track down inside the walls. Chimney repair and repointing, lead work and slate repairs are all part of the regular service. Care also means respecting what's already there. On a full re-roof, one customer described on Google how the roof was scaffolded, stripped back to the rafters, fitted with a new breathable membrane and treated battens, with sound tiles reused and only the damaged ones replaced, before new fascias and gutters went on. That kind of thinking suits older Llandaff homes well, where keeping good original material is often the right call. The trees around the cathedral and Llandaff Fields bring another job every autumn, as leaves fill gutters and valleys and send water where it shouldn't go. Experienced roofers in Cardiff check these details on every visit.

Every quote is free and written down before any work starts, so there are no surprises. How can I tell a dodgy roofer from a good one? Be wary of anyone who knocks on the door uninvited, pushes for cash up front or claims the whole roof needs replacing without showing you why. A reputable Cardiff roofer will give a written quote, explain the guarantee, confirm they are insured and show you photos of the problem. Redland Roofing Cardiff do all of this as standard on every job. Who are some reputable roofers in Cardiff? Look for an established local firm with a long track record and plenty of genuine reviews. A roofer who recommends a repair rather than an unnecessary replacement is usually a good sign. What questions should I ask my roofer before work starts? For a full re-roof, ask how the house will be kept dry overnight. Redland Roofing Cardiff leave roofs watertight at the end of every working day and give a clear timeline before starting. How long does a roof last in Wales? Welsh rain, coastal winds and freeze-thaw cycles all shorten roof life. A well-installed concrete or clay tile roof can last 40 to 60 years with maintenance, and good slate can outlast the building. Felt flat roofs tend to last 10 to 15 years, while EPDM rubber, which Redland Roofing Cardiff specialise in, can last 25 to 30 years or more. What usually causes a roof to leak? The most common culprits on Cardiff homes are slipped or missing tiles, cracked flashing around chimneys, blocked gutters, worn valleys and failed lead joints.
