

Andrews Highway and Big Spring Street Crash Claims in Midland Andrews Highway angles northwest out of Midland toward Andrews, and Big Spring Street carries traffic north out of downtown toward Loop 250. Both corridors feed the north side of the city, where neighborhoods like Polo Park and Crestgate sit close to busy retail strips and fast-moving loop traffic. Put commuters, school runs, delivery vans and oilfield pickups on the same lanes, and crashes are a steady part of life up here. When one happens to you, the first days afterward tend to decide how your claim goes. The wrecks on these roads follow some familiar patterns. Drivers merging on and off Loop 250 north misjudge a gap. Someone turning left across several lanes on Andrews Highway guesses wrong about oncoming speed. Traffic backs up near shopping centers on Big Spring Street and a distracted driver doesn't stop in time. Farther out, the road runs flat and straight, which tempts people to push the speed limit, and heavy trucks tied to Permian Basin work share those same lanes. Night driving past the edge of town and spring dust storms that throw sand across the road only add to the risk. After a collision, the police report is where most people start, and it matters. You can buy the Texas Peace Officer's Crash Report, form CR-3, through TxDOT's Crash Records Information System. But a report is a snapshot, and it doesn't always tell the full story. The Doan Law Firm investigates beyond the police report. That can mean looking at the scene, the vehicles, witness accounts and any video from nearby businesses along the corridor. The goal is to gather real evidence of fault, because Texas uses proportionate responsibility. If an insurer can pin part of the blame on you, your recovery shrinks, and if you're found more than 50 percent at fault, you can't recover at all.

Founder Jimmy Doan was named to the Top 25 Motor Vehicle Trial Lawyers in 2026, and insurers know which firms are prepared to go to court. What should you not tell your insurance company after a crash? Avoid apologizing, guessing about speed or distances, or saying you feel fine before a doctor has checked you. Anything you say in a recorded statement can be used to argue you share the blame, which matters under Texas rules that cut your recovery by your percentage of fault. The Doan Law Firm can handle those calls for you from the start. What is the biggest mistake people make with a car accident claim? Delaying medical treatment is one of the most costly. Gaps between the crash and your first doctor visit give insurers room to argue your injuries came from something else. Whether you go to Midland Memorial Hospital or an urgent care clinic, get checked quickly. Midland clients of The Doan Law Firm say the team helped them arrange treatment within about a week. How much can you get for pain and suffering in Texas? There is no fixed formula or cap in ordinary Texas car accident cases. The amount depends on how serious your injuries are, how long recovery takes and how the crash changed your daily life. The Doan Law Firm documents both economic losses and non-economic harm, such as pain, mental anguish and physical impairment, before negotiating with insurers. What is the hardest injury to prove after a car accident? Injuries that don't show up on an X-ray, like whiplash, soft tissue damage, mild traumatic brain injury and post-crash anxiety, are often the hardest to prove. Consistent treatment records, doctor notes and a daily pain journal help. The Midland team investigates beyond the police report to build evidence that insurers can't easily dismiss. Can I get compensation for anxiety after a car accident? Yes, Texas law allows recovery for mental anguish when it is tied to the crash and properly documented. Fear of driving, trouble sleeping and panic attacks after a wreck on I-20 or SH 191 are real harms. The Doan Law Firm can connect clients with trusted medical professionals so these effects are recorded and valued fairly. How likely is it to get sued after a car accident in Midland? Most crash claims settle through insurance without anyone being personally sued, especially when the at-fault driver carries at least the Texas minimum of 30/60/25 coverage. Lawsuits become more likely when injuries are serious and exceed the policy limits. If you have received a demand letter or lawsuit, call The Doan Law Firm at (432) 653-0000 to talk through your options. When should you contact a Midland car accident lawyer?
