Men tend to describe their noses in practical terms. A bump that catches the light, a tip that droops when they smile, a slight crookedness left over from a sports injury. Those concerns are common, and so is the worry that surgery will make the nose look too small or too sculpted for a masculine face. For men in Palms and Mar Vista weighing a nose job, consultations with Dr. Jacob Sedgh take place at his West Hollywood office at 9201 Sunset Blvd, on the Sunset Strip. Male rhinoplasty is one of the specific areas within Dr. Sedgh's rhinoplasty practice. The aim in most cases is refinement rather than reinvention, keeping a strong bridge and a tip that suits the rest of the face, since features such as the brow and jaw influence what looks balanced. Dr. Sedgh is a double board-certified facial plastic surgeon with training in otolaryngology, so breathing is part of the assessment too. That is relevant for men who had a nasal fracture years ago and have noticed one side of the nose feels blocked ever since. Expectations are worth setting early. Every nose is different, results vary, and a consultation is where the realistic range of change can be discussed for an individual face. A medical evaluation decides candidacy, and the risks of surgery, including the possibility of needing further treatment later, should be discussed openly. Google reviewers, who rate the practice 4.7 stars from about 156 reviews, often mention natural-looking results, which matches the goal many men bring to a Los Angeles nose job, a nose that simply does not look operated on.

Palms sits along the Expo Line and Mar Vista lies close to the 405, so the route north to the Sunset Strip varies. Some will head up the 405 and across on Sunset Boulevard, while others will cut across on Santa Monica Boulevard or take La Cienega Blvd north toward West Hollywood. The office is near the Doheny Drive edge of Beverly Hills and is open Monday to Friday, 9am to 5pm, with consultations by appointment. Beyond rhinoplasty, the practice also offers procedures that men ask about, such as male facelift and neck lift, though the nose remains the main focus of Dr. Sedgh's work. For a frank discussion about Los Angeles Nose Job male rhinoplasty and what surgery could realistically change, call (310) 888-2884 to arrange a consultation at the Sunset Blvd office in West Hollywood. Bringing up past injuries, sports, and any breathing complaints helps shape the plan. Fees depend on the procedure, its complexity, anesthesia and facility costs, and they are quoted at the consultation rather than over the phone.

FAQ About Los Angeles Nose Job What is the average cost of a nose job in Los Angeles? There is no single figure, because the fee depends on whether the surgery is primary or revision, how much structural work is needed, and the anesthesia and surgical facility costs. Revision and combined functional and cosmetic cases usually take longer than a straightforward primary rhinoplasty. At Jacob Sedgh, MD in West Hollywood, a written quote follows the consultation once Dr. Sedgh has examined the nose and agreed a plan with the patient. How long does a nose job last? The structural changes from rhinoplasty are designed to be permanent, although the nose continues to age naturally with the rest of the face. Swelling settles gradually, and the tip can take a year or more to show its final definition. Dr. Jacob Sedgh follows patients through that first year from his office on Sunset Blvd. Is rhinoplasty 100% safe? No surgery is free of risk. Rhinoplasty carries risks such as bleeding, infection, breathing changes, asymmetry and the possibility of needing revision. Dr. Sedgh, a double board-certified facial plastic surgeon, reviews medical history, candidacy and specific risks at consultation so patients can make an informed decision before anything is scheduled. How do I choose a rhinoplasty surgeon in Los Angeles? Look at board certification, the surgeon's training, how much of their practice is devoted to the nose, and before and after photos of noses similar to yours. Dr. Jacob Sedgh trained in head and neck surgery at the University of Pittsburgh and completed a facial plastic surgery fellowship at Penn State Hershey, and his practice is limited to the nose, face, ears and neck. A consultation is also a chance to judge how clearly a surgeon explains the plan. Do ENT surgeons do rhinoplasty? Many facial plastic surgeons, including Dr. Sedgh, began in otolaryngology, the ENT specialty, before completing fellowship training in facial plastic and reconstructive surgery. That background means the septum, airway and nasal valves are part of every rhinoplasty plan, not only the outside shape. Patients with breathing complaints can have functional and cosmetic goals assessed together in West Hollywood. Can insurance cover any part of a nose job? Purely cosmetic rhinoplasty is not covered by insurance. Functional work, such as correcting a deviated septum that blocks breathing, may be partly covered when the problem is documented and the plan's criteria are met. Jacob Sedgh, MD can explain which parts of a combined procedure are functional and which are cosmetic; call (310) 888-2884 to ask. What is recovery like after rhinoplasty? Most patients wear a splint for about the first week and see the worst bruising and swelling fade over the following weeks, although every recovery is different. Strenuous exercise, glasses resting on the nose and strong sun are usually limited for a period. Dr. Sedgh uses the Piezo ultrasonic system for bone work, which published studies associate with less early bruising, and he gives each patient written aftercare instructions. Is it better to have a nose job abroad or in Los Angeles? Surgery abroad can look cheaper at first, but follow-up visits, managing complications and any future revision are much harder from another country. Having rhinoplasty in Los Angeles keeps the surgeon within reach for the whole first year of healing. Patients from across the city, including Beverly Hills, Century City, Westwood and Culver City, see Dr. Sedgh at one office on the Sunset Strip. What is male rhinoplasty? Male rhinoplasty adapts the operation to masculine facial features, usually keeping a straighter, stronger bridge and avoiding an over-rotated or overly narrow tip. Many men also want better breathing at the same time. Dr. Jacob Sedgh plans male rhinoplasty around the brow, cheekbones and jawline so the nose stays in proportion with the face. What is revision rhinoplasty and when is it needed? Revision rhinoplasty corrects concerns that remain after an earlier nose surgery, whether cosmetic or functional. It is more intricate than a first operation because of scar tissue, reduced cartilage and changed skin. Dr. Sedgh evaluates the previous surgery and generally advises waiting until the nose has fully settled before planning a revision at his West Hollywood practice. What is the difference between open and closed rhinoplasty? Open rhinoplasty adds a small incision across the columella, the strip of skin between the nostrils, which gives the surgeon a direct view of the tip structures. Closed rhinoplasty keeps all incisions inside the nose. The right approach depends on the anatomy and the changes needed, and Dr. Sedgh explains his recommendation at consultation. Is a non-surgical nose job permanent? A non-surgical nose job uses injectable filler to smooth a bump or lift the tip, and the effect is temporary. Filler cannot make a nose smaller or improve breathing, and it carries its own risks. Jacob Sedgh, MD offers both injectable and surgical options and can explain which suits a patient's goals; call (310) 888-2884 to book a consultation.
