Family reunions bring together people of every age, from toddlers to great-grandparents, and the venue has to work for all of them. Parks lack restrooms and shade, homes run out of space, and rented halls can feel sterile. Bailey Wick Farm Wedding & Event Venue in Fincastle has hosted reunions alongside weddings and showers, and its mix of indoor and outdoor space makes it a strong fit for Botetourt County families.

The barn gives everyone a comfortable home base. It covers 6,480 square feet with heating and air conditioning, and the venue provides tables and chairs for up to 200 guests. That is enough room for a potluck line, a photo slideshow and plenty of seating for relatives who would rather catch up than wander the property.

Outside, there is space for kids to run and adults to relax. The farm has a pavilion, a fire pit and a wide covered porch with rocking chairs that look out over the Blue Ridge Mountains. Reviewers mention ample parking too, which matters when cars are arriving from Daleville, Troutville, Buchanan and out of state.

Assign a family member to handle name tags or a memory table with old photos, and ask a few relatives to bring lawn games for the kids. A wide covered porch and a fire pit give the older generation a comfortable place to tell stories while younger cousins explore the open space around the barn and pavilion.
