

Addiction Crisis San Diego Emergency Help Drug Rehabs HGR 24 Hour When an addiction reaches a point of acute crisis in a San Diego household, whether a family member has overdosed, is in dangerous withdrawal, or has reached a moment of crisis that the family cannot manage alone, immediate professional help is the priority. HGR Drug Rehabs San Diego California operates 24 hours a day and the admissions team is available to respond immediately to families in crisis, helping identify the right level of care and guiding the family through the steps of getting professional help as quickly as possible. For life-threatening emergencies including overdose or severe withdrawal, calling 911 is always the first step. Once acute medical stabilization has been achieved, the admissions team at HGR can provide guidance on what comes next in terms of addiction treatment, how to pursue admission to the appropriate level of care, and how to navigate insurance coverage for the treatment. For crises that are not immediately life-threatening but that have reached a point where the family or the individual cannot safely wait, the HGR admissions team provides crisis counseling support over the phone and can help move toward rapid admission to detox or residential treatment depending on the clinical situation.
